I RISE TO REMARK

BY JOHN PHILLIPS

When the people look back over the 80th Congress, it is quite possible they will find some things still undone. The propaganda machines will roll, the politicians will take over, and it will be an understanding citizen who will be able to separate the wheat from the chaff.

No session is perfect, no law is perfect. Sessions follow sessions. Too few laws are better than too many laws. Do you recall when Bruce Barton came to Congress from New York on the specific platform that he would repeal a law a day?

At the moment we are in a difficult situation. After the war between the states, the nation faced a similar problem; inflation, watered money, and political proposals to repudiate the debts resulting from the war and "greenbacks". Today we have a president who blames the people and wants them regulated and wants prices pegged, when in fact, the people are not the culprits, the government itself is to blame.

We had a president, after the civil war, who was strong enough to prevent repudiation, to tell the people the truth, and to squeeze the water out of the greenbacks. If we roll back the prices today, shall we also roll back wages? Shall we limit foreign aid only to the needs and requests of the nations or shall we send a half billion dollars worth of cotton, for which the nations didn't ask, or a third billion dollars worth of tobacco, when they asked for a quarter million, and preferred Egyptian? These are three of many questions.

Suppose we see what the 80th Congress did do: It repealed or ended 76,000 rules, regulations, directives, and orders, which the government had imposed on the people. There are still more to be ended. It cut taxes to smaller tax payers, as compared with the previous Congress which had reduced them only to the larger corporations. It paid 7 billions on the national debt, in spite of more money for important irrigation and reclamation projects than any time in the history of this country, and in spite of increasing national defense demands. The amount cut from the president's budget was approximately $6,350,000,000.

It removed quietly over one hundred commies from important positions in the federal departments, and is now bringing to light the working of this spy ring, which was delivering our secrets to Russia, and whose members earnestly desired the overthrow of this form of government, the Republic.

It passed 188 bills meeting the needs of veterans, besides the items in the budget bills, the largest single item of which is for the Veterans Administration. It really did a job on National defense, and none too soon. Few people knew how our strength had disintegrated since the end of the war.

It did a lot for the farmers. It expanded social security, and in spite of the screams of the commies, who came to Washington en masse a few days ago, it did not cut anyone off. It established important research in heart disease and cancer. I have pages and pages of a memo in front of me listing the constructive accomplishments of the 80th Congress.

I rise to remark that it did NOT yield to the promoted demands that we introduce in the United States the elements of national socialism which destroyed Germany, Italy and France, and is now eating the heart out of England. Just because Russia has them is no good reason, to me, why we should have them. Russia also has dysentery, starvation, slavery and Joe Stalin. We have the Republic, free people, and the somewhat illusionary idea that we can loan money to everyone in the world, and ship out scarce commodities, without affecting prices or our standards of living.

VFW Discusses Plans For Fall White Gold Day

The newly organized VFW obligated a new member at its meeting Thursday of last week, making 55 members to date. Adding his name to the roster of members was Sidney Christopher.

The organization is planning to take an active part in the White Gold Day celebration on September 18. In addition to running a hot dog and hamburger stand, it is planned to enter a decorated car in the parade. Decorating committee appointed was Don Wedeking, George Loney and Bob O'Leary.

Plans are being made for the organization of a women's auxiliary in the near future. In this connection a special meeting of the unit was called for eight o'clock, August 19, at the Scout house.

SALE DAY IS BIG DAY AT AUCTION YARD

By Beth Kroesen

We didn't go to the animal fair, at which the birds and the beasts were reported as all there, but we went to something Saturday morning just as interesting and which had all the ear-marks of an animal fair and a lot more besides. We arrived bright and early in the morning out at the Nick Harris' to attend the public sale at the Cypress Auction Yard, but already the cars and trucks of contributors and prospective purchasers jammed the parking lot. We understand now a little more fully the unusual activity on our main street on this big sale day, because most of that livestock is being hauled right out to the auction yard, where it is unloaded and placed in the proper pens, so that the big sale moves along with clock-like precision.

The yard itself takes on the appearance of a fair or a circus, with a well-stocked booth providing eats and drinks for those of us who came to spend the duration of the sale-day. Besides the many sections and departments of the auction scattered all around the premises, items which must pass through the hands of the auctioneer, there is a bazaar-like arrangement up near the food stand presided over by Mrs. Wildman. Here you can find almost any article of clothing or interesting little knick-knacks or baubles, appealing especially to the women which may be bought outright. If you are a collector of old buttons, you might find this a collector's paradise, since Mrs. Wildman refuses to remove buttons or other trim which are a part of the garment, before she makes a sale.

We watched while Mrs. J. D. Connell checked in miscellaneous items to be sold at auction. It was amazing to see several boxes of hard-to-procure fruit jars and covers. We venture to say that some lucky family will eat well this winter because of the thriftiness and foresight of the housewife and mother who "put up" fruit and vegetables from trees and gardens yielding their harvest right now.

But now it is ten o'clock, and the first items of auction go on sale. These are the chickens and rabbits, and we listened while "Spence" Spencer disposed of pen after pen of these. The crowd listens and at a nod of a head over here, a lifting of the pipe from his teeth in this corner, or a flicker of the eyebrow of the lady with her husband buying for a neighbor, he is able to dispose of the miscellaneous items throughout the day without a hitch. "Barney" D. Garber, all the way from Santa Monica, bought the two geese in the first cage to start the day's activities rolling. We had the feeling that "Barney" was pretty well known around the sale, as were others who came from all over the country. We know they came from miles away, many of them, because of the name plates on their vehicles. But we didn't see many people from Cypress whom we knew. This is a pretty fair sample of the prophet in his own country who is without honor.

On sale days it requires a staff of at least fourteen persons to keep things under control, besides Mr. and Mrs. Harris and their auctioneer, Bob Faulkner. And if you wanted to estimate the amount and volume of business which passes through their hands on a single sale day, you could use five digits in the total and begin with the figure three, and you wouldn't be so far off. Bob Faulkner himself is efficient to the point of being able to sell 75 cows an hour. If somebody advertised an interesting event similar to this being held in Hollywood, we'd all rush up to attend, but this is just in our back yard, so to speak.

The three principles of the sale were busy with the pressing details attendant upon such a big undertaking—Mr. and Mrs. Harris and Bob Faulkner. Our informant was Carey Nay, owner of the land upon which the Cypress auction yard is located, and we are grateful to him for being a valued informant on this, our first attendance, at a public sale.

WORKERS IN COUNTY SAVE FUNDS THROUGH BOND - A - MONTH PLAN

During the first seven months of this year, Southern Californians invested $139,105,904 in U.S. Savings Bonds, a tabulation by J. B. Messick state director of Treasury bonds sales, revealed.

Orange county's sales from January first through July 31 aggregated $3,641,759.25. The county's total last month was $503,343.00 of which $289,519.00 were E-Bonds.

Notice To VFW Members

A picnic to be sponsored by the County Council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held in Anaheim city park on Sunday, August 29, to which all members, their families and friends of Cypress Post No. 9847 are cordially invited. Festivities will begin at eight o'clock in the morning, and all are invited to bring basket lunches and plan to spend the day. There will be all types of entertainment and games, complete with prizes — and booby prizes.

There will also be offered a prize for the biggest attendance by any one post determined by percentage of members present, according to information received by publicity director of the local organization, Carl Markel, who is very desirous of seeing Cypress win this honor.

Free hamburgers and pop will be served the guests throughout the day's festivities. Remember the date — Sunday, August 29, at Anaheim city park.

Seek Cooperation Of Local Residents

By Otho Switzer

A few weeks ago, less than a month, to be exact, an appeal was made through the columns of this paper, to you, "Mr. and Mrs. Citizen" in the Cypress area, by the Business Men's association in Cypress, to give more support and cooperation in the matter of curbing unwanted peddlers and solicitors in our community.

As chairman of the club's committee to protect not only the housewives but also the merchants and professional men engaged in legitimate business in the community, it can not be too strongly stressed that steps are being taken to control uninvestigated salesmen from making door to door canvasses and presenting schemes for taking time and money which are not dependable. Your committee is operating and has issued to those it feels are deserving of the proper credentials, a card which you may ask to see. This is your protection. The official card appears with information headed as follows:

Approval

The bearer of this card has been investigated and his credentials found satisfactory.

Underneath is a blank for the product sanctioned for sale, and the date the permit to sell expires.

This information is all carried over the signature of the Cypress Business Men's Association signed by the chairman of its committee.

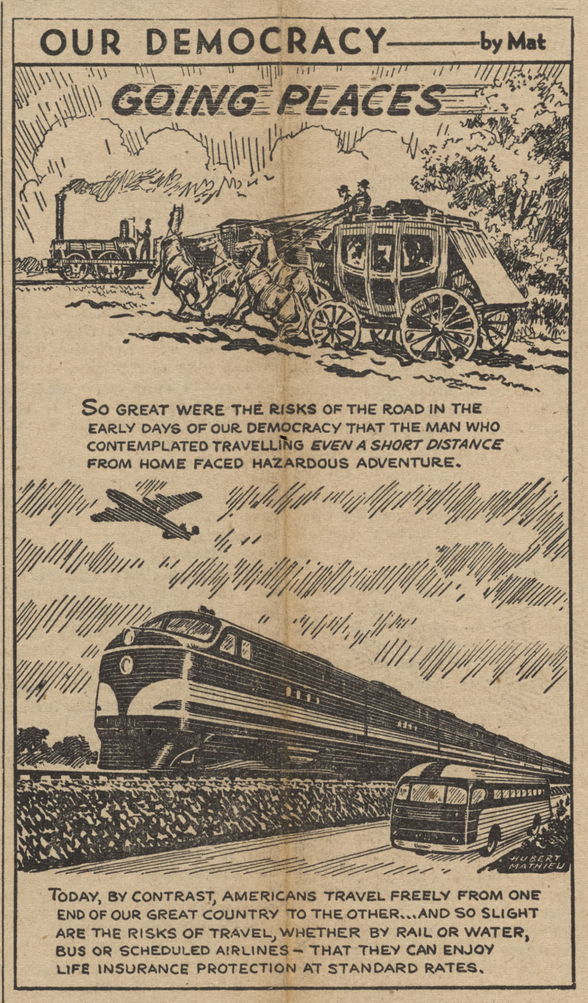
If this card cannot be produced, advise the caller that you would not be at liberty to consider his wares, and suggest that he get in touch with the committee. Request for a card may be made to the chairman, to the editor of this newspaper, or to the president of the responsible service organization, Frank Noe, in the Cypress hardware.

Being a firm believer in the principle of not asking someone else to do a thing which we would not consider doing ourselves, you will find that the proper card of authority has been issued to each business firm in town, attesting to the fact that in the eyes of the committee they are dependable and reliable.

Navy Man From Cypress Aboard USS Coral Sea

Robert N. Norton, boilerman, second class, USN, on of Mrs. Dorothy Smith of 5701 Vonnie Lane, Cypress, California, is serving aboard the USS Coral Sea CVB, which is currently participating in the annual midshipmen's practice cruise.

During the midshipmen cruise this summer, the ship, in touring Portuguese and western Mediterranean waters, has visited the ports of Lisbon, Golfe Juan on the French Riviera, and Gibraltar. The Coral Sea has recently been engaged in air exercises, operating from Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, after which he will return to Norfolk, Virginia, to disembark the midshipmen.



OUR DEMOCRACY——by Mat
GOING PLACES
SO GREAT WERE THE RISKS OF THE ROAD IN THE EARLY DAYS OF OUR DEMOCRACY THAT THE MAN WHO CONTEMPLATED TRAVELLING EVEN A SHORT DISTANCE FROM HOME FACED HAZARDOUS ADVENTURE.
TODAY, BY CONTRAST, AMERICANS TRAVEL FREELY FROM ONE END OF OUR GREAT COUNTRY TO THE OTHER...AND SO SLIGHT ARE THE RISKS OF TRAVEL, WHETHER BY RAIL OR WATER, BUS OR SCHEDULED AIRLINES — THAT THEY CAN ENJOY LIFE INSURANCE PROTECTION AT STANDARD RATES.

IT'S BEING SAID - - IN CYPRESS

That last week we knew just how Mrs. T. V. Stinson felt when she came in to advertise in the lost and found section of the classified ads. Only one who has had a similar experience can know the utter feeling of despair, be it a ladies' purse or a man's wallet which has disappeared, to try to figure out the best means to go about regaining valuable lost papers such as social security cards, credit cards, etc. The amount of money missing is usually negligible when considering the inconvenience and hopelessness of replacing the apparently useless to the finder, contents of the lost container. Did you know that a professional pickpocket will almost without fail deposit the stolen purse in a mailbox, and that eventually you will receive your possession back again? Minus the money, of course, and not without some headache in the meantime from worrying.

The last week's theatre program down at Holiday stage was sort of "dedicated" to the efforts of the Orange county press in behalf of the cooperation given the management in bringing before the public the program offered for the summer. This was not a particularly difficult thing to do, especially under the influence of the personality of Ken Carmichael, director of public relations. We offer to young people who wish to get ahead in the world the advice to train their memories so that they can remember names and faces. It can be done, and we point to Carmichael as a shining example of this faculty. We met him casually in our business office in January, and when we appeared in the lobby of the theatre among hundreds of other patrons in August, he called us by name, and ours is not an easy name to remember. It is not difficult to cooperate with Carmichael and Harold Turney under those circumstances, especially when they are offering a program to our readers which we feel is so much to their benefit. Who knows but that one of our own young people is a potential Helen Hayes or Alfred Lunt and may get hers or his start in just such a summer stock company.

That while we are on the subject of memories, we had better reveal our own bad one and clear up several errors which occured in these columns recently. Maybe we should inaugurate a permanent column to correct errors? Anyway no matter what you read a couple of issues back, the party at the school house sponsored by the chamber of commerce and the V.F.W. is Monday night, August 23. The date was correct as given, but the day of the week was wrong. And we sat right in the chamber of commerce meeting when E. V. Corby walked up to the secretary's desk and paid his dues in the organiztion, and then failed to mention him in the article following the meeting as being a new member! We watched later, too, as Leona paid Pat Arnold dues for her cafe, since she was unable to be present at the meeting, so we now publicly report these two as new members. And speaking of Leona, we spelled her last name incorrectly, when reporting a few weeks back that she would assume management of the corner coffee shop. It should be spelled with a "K" instead of an "h", making it Murdock. So there.

That we didn't make any mistake when announcing plans and date for the dance given jointly at the Cypress airpark hangar by the firemen and V. F. W. It was a big success, but the attendance wasn't large enough. We don't begin to know residents of this growing metropolis, but we can truthfully say that there wasn't a soul there whom we didn't know, or had seen before. We hope next time to make some new acquaintances, besides thinking that we are helping two worthy community organizations.

That J. E. Bradford told us the other day about his car, which doesn't have to resort to a bright coat of paint to make it unusual. It is a 1923 Model "T" Ford, and he has owned it all but one year, having purchased it "secondhand" when it was a year old. And we just bet that it's in better condition from good care and handling than many much later models. Bradford confesses that he was in a serious auto accident a few years ago and feeling that he had escaped very fortunately from serious consequences, he decided not to renew his license.

That we just can't let this column go this week without mentioning that Rick, Lee Stradley and yours truly attended the Iowa picnic down at Bixby park in Long Beach last Saturday afternoon. We don't know how Rick fared, but Lee had a wonderful time being fussed over by aunts and school teachers who hadn't seen him for years.

MONEY HELPS FIGHT CANCER

Beleiving that early examination for precancerous conditions is the only safe answer to America's most dread disease, the Cancer Prevention Society, under the sponsorship of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, has found that eight and three tenths percent of the more than 22,000 men, women and children examined have had precancerous conditions. This means that approximately 1,000 lives have been saved yearly since the society opened its first clinic in March, 1944.

MOVIES Tonight!

You'll like the show tonight—a full program, including the feature, 'About face", starring Jimmie Gleason. Besides, you'll be helping in this merchant-sponsored activity at the Cypress school each week to add money to the fund to provide a recreation park for the community.

SKY PILOTS GROUP INTERESTS BOYS IN

Members of the Los Alamitos Sky Pilots Squadron were entertained Tuesday of last week at a picnic at Irvine park by their captain and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Whitesides, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Long's Trailer park, Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman and Mr. and Mrs. Ivester of Anaheim.

This group of boys, ranging in age from nine to 14 years, is constantly increasing in numbers, the latest boy to join and receive his membership card and Sky Pilot's pin being Tommy Pillow. Coupled with the fun of building model airplanes, the boys receive Christian training and must be regular attendants at some Sunday school.

A recent report from the Sky Pilot headquarters in Puente, stated that the Sky Pilot Airport in that city is soon to be purchased for the national organization of Sky Pilots.

County Planning Body Has Rough Time At Hearing

George Bellis presented the petitions for changes in the proposed zoning map of Buena Park to the Orange County Planning Commission at a hearing Tuesday marked by firey condemnation of the proposed ordinance. Although Bellis did not participate in the opposition to the plan, representatives from Costa Mesa, Garden Grove and Santa Ana roundly condemned the ordinance as morally wrong and as adopting a form of statism.

Some merely protested it as "too restrictive" and one proposal suggested that a variance could be gained with consent of 80 percent of property owners within 300 feet of the applicant, and that this could be overridden by the board of supervisors only by a four-fifths vote.

The five commission members at the hearing declined to discuss the challenges and had no statements to make regarding the proposed changes. Several people present spoke in favor of the proposal.

The second hearing on the zoning will be held at Garden Grove high school auditorium on Thursday, August 26.

Movie Stars In Holiday Stage Showing of Claudia

Tom Drake and Selena Royle of the MGM Studios and Geraldine Brooks of Warner Brothers join Holiday Stagers Oliver Cliff and Mary Finney in the Tustin strawhatter's next-to-last show of the season when "Claudia" opens for a week's run next Monday night.

Gerald Mayer, assistant producer and test director at MGM, has been brought to Orange County to guest-direct the production, releasing E. Alyn Warren, Holiday Stage director, for early rehearsals on the musical play slated to close the current season.

Tom Drake, who is making his appearance at Holiday Stage, having scored a hit last year in 'Night Must Fall," recently appeared on the screen with Selena Royle in "Cass Timberlane". Miss Royle, who played mother to Drake in that film, will enact the maternal role in "Claudia", with Geraldine Brooks in the title role.

Oliver Cliff is now playing the role of Yank with Marshall Thompson in "The Hasty Heart," currently attracting large audiences at Holiday Stage. Miss Finney received credical plaudits for her superb work last week in "I Remember Mama" in the Stagers" successful production of the Van Druten show.

"Claudia" is scheduled to run nightly next week through Saturday, August 28, with usual Saturday matinee.

SAFE NIGHT DRIVING

Safe night driving depends a lot on safe night lighting, points out National Club. Those who do much driving after dark should always be sure that their headlights, taillights, stop lights, and direction lights are all in good condition and are working properly.

Popularity Contest Features Event Plans

You're Invited Monday Night

There will be a social meeting of the Cypress Chamber of Commerce on this Monday evening, August 23, in the school house, to be held with Cypress Post No. 9847 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars as co-hosts.

The purpose of the affair, which was planned at a recent meeting of the Cypress Chamber of Commerce, and which is open to all families, and friends and members of either organization, is to promote a greater interest in the activities of these groups and allow an opportunity to establish more friendly relations with neighbors and acquaintances concerned with the welfare of the community.

This is your opportunity to join in an evening of entertainment and pleasure, beginning with a program in the auditorium and ending with the serving of refreshments in the cafeteria. Remember this Monday evening, August 23, at the Cypress elementary school building.

Sports

Those Cypress gals on the softball team have done it again. They believe in playing a game that's worthwhile and exciting, and if they can't win, neither can the opposition. The game last Tuesday night, which was played on the local schoolgrounds, ended at the end of the ninth inning in a 7-7 tie score, not because of the old excuse for "darkness", which had fallen long since, but because time ran out and it was necessary for the visiting team from LaVerne to call it a night and head for home.

On Wednesday night the local team journeyed to Artesia where they met up with the Artesia Spitfires. The Artesia girls led until along about the fourth inning, when our team tied the score. It was nip and tuck, the score finally arriving at a 6 to 6 score, when Cypress scored to end the game at 7 to 6.

So far the girls have managed to collect one free malt each from Marion Precie, of Ernie's Drive-in restaurant not being on the losing side. At this rate, Marion will probably have to limit them to one win a week. Although he is a big man in anybody's community, he's not THAT big, that his business can warrant keeping up with a whole teamful of malt thirsty lassies.

Naval Air Station Changes C. O.'s

One thousand navy and marine enlisted men and two hundred officers assembled on the parade ground at Los Alamitos Naval Air station for a personnel inspection, at which Captain Michael H. Kernodle, USN, read his orders and assumed command of the station on Friay, August 13, relieving Commander G. C. Briant who has been acting Commanding Officer.

This is not the Captain's first command of a naval air reserve station, having at one time commanded the reserve air base at Squantum, Massachusetts. It is significant that during that time Squantum won the coveted Noel Davis trophy for top performance. Captain Kernodle has been flying since 1924, during which time he has had practically every type of aviation assignment.

The nature of one of the biggest events leading up to White Gold Day to be held in Cypress on Saturday, September 18, has been kept a secret until announcement was made Tuesday morning at the Business Men's association breakfast meeting by the committee chairman, G. L. "Jerry" Kelley, that the contest to be part of the big festival will be a popularity contest! The most popular girl in Cypress, between the ages of 12 and 20, will be White Gold Day queen, and reign for the entire day.

The committee chairman has stated that registration will start Saturday, August 21 and continue through Wednesday, August 25, in front of the post office, where entry blanks will be available. The hours will be from ten in the morning until four on Saturday, and from two o'clock until four in the afternoon on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The contest will be in effect until noon on Wednesday, September 15, and the winner will be announced on Friday, September 17 and will ride as queen on the float in the parade to be provided by the committee.

From well-made plans announced by chairman Kelley, it was revealed that the first prize for the honor of winning the queen's title will be a lovely fall ensemble, consisting of hat, gloves, shoes, purse and dress. The second prize to be offered is $25 in merchandise and the third prize $15 in merchandise. The decision as to who is the most popular girl in Cypress will be determined by which girl sells the most tickets for the celebration, each $1 sold counting as one point. Kelley urged each merchant to interest an eligible girl in entering the contest. The business firms are in no sense of the word "sponsoring" an entrant, but it is hoped that interest displayed by the stores and girls will result in the participation of a large number for the title of "queen" when registrations open. The cooperation of all is especially desired since the money raised by White Gold Day will go toward the realization of a recreation park for this community.

Although they were not able to be present at the meeting, it was announced by the general chairman of the festival, "Dick" Hathcock, that plans for the auction in the evening under the direction of Nick Harris and Bob Faulkner, of the Cypress auction yard, were going forward. They contemplate selling bids on a fat steer, on which a drawing will be held in the evening, the proceeds to go into the general White Gold Day funds.

An interesting event scheduled this year is a horse show to be held on the grounds south of the school buildings following the parade. This is an innovation this year which should prove to be highly entertaining, complete with trick riding and acrobatic stunts.

At the suggestion of the president, Frank Noe, it was voted to dispense with the breakfast meetings until after White Gold Day so that all available time and effort be devoted to making the undertaking a success.

FOREST FIRES

It takes many years to grow a forest but it can be burned down in a few days by a carelessly thrown match, warns National Automobile Club. Motorists passing through our countryside will do well to use great caution with their matches, cigarettes, and pipes during the dry months of summer and fall.

OUR TRAFFIC PREDICAMENT.

Some of you have asked outright, and others are probably wondering what, if anything, has occured with regard to the four-way stop at Lincoln and Walker.

As has been reported previously through these columns, certain civic organizations came through with flying colors in a concerted effort to advise officials of the fact that Cypressans are not only interested, but anxious to obtain some sort of control at the busiest intersection in town, which is also a federal highway. The women in the Community club sent a letter, as did members of the newly formed Cypress post number 9847 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The ladies in the service organization of the Baptist church were contacted, and not only will cooperate, but felt that a church-wide petition signed by all members would be more effective than one from so small a section of its group.

A certain supervisor, came with the encouraging information a few weeks back that if the secretary of the chamber of commerce would write ONE more letter in the chamber's name, pointing out the fact that there was no means of slowing traffic between Stanton and Norwalk avenues and that trucks and cars gained considerable speed while passing through Cypress, that we might believe action would at long last be forthcoming. Our good secretary dropped everything concerning his own business, composed a suitable letter, which in itself is no mean task, and sent it post haste. No word has been received to date, not even an acknowledgment of the request, and the supervisor is on an extended vacation.

We deem this to be a pitiable, and, if we must say so, a ridiculous situation, when a whole town full of people, whose very lives are at stake, must wait year after year for four little white sticks of wood with a red metal plate bearing the simple word "stop" to be set, one on each corner, of a busy intersection. We're getting just a little weary of trying to cross the street from the postoffice a couple or three times a day, while in the safety zone, mind you, and be honked or waved back to the curb by a car or truck going an unestimated speed through the center of our town. This does something to our ego and pride which is a little difficult to define. Evidently the rest of you don't suffer this kind of humiliation at the hands of our motorists and don't mind that we aren't authoritative enough in our little village to even prevent being hurt——maybe with serious consequences.

During the first six months of 1948, Orange county has reported 46 traffic accident deaths. These have taken place all around us. What is to prevent their happening here?

So, what's to be done? We have it on fairly good authority that one man was responsible for obtaining the electric signal in the country at the corner of Stanton and Lincoln in the interests of BUSINESS. Is there one among us who could obtain four little sticks of wood to place on a busy corner to slow down traffic in the interests of those among us who love life and want to LIVE?

Let's quit looking down our noses and complaining from our armchairs because a few carry on the activities of our community, in a way in which we maybe don't approve. Let's each one of us back up one of our civic organizations and lend a real helping hand. Naturally a whole townful of individuals can't form a committee to appear before the powers that be and ask for a four-way stop. But maybe an individual, or a small delegation of individuals from one of the local service clubs could be a real influence if they felt that they had the interests of you, the public, behind them.

THE BEST STORIES

Some of the best news stories never make the headlines. Too often, in fact, they never get into print at all.

One story, for instance, which we thought should have received a good deal more attention than it did was the one about the Boston policeman who befriended a little school girl. The policeman directed traffic near the school where the child attended. He noticed that she was unmercifully teased by the other youngsters because of a facial disfigurement and shabby clothes.

Hoping to ease in some measure the heartaches she suffered at the hands of her thoughtless playmates he began to give her little presents bought with his own money. In talking with her he learned that she was an orphan, and this further increased his desire to help.

Now he has interested others in her case and a fund is being raised to finance a series of operations which will remove her disfigurement.

We should hear more about stories like this. They would help to offset the sordid tales of crime and conflict and would give our morale a much needed boost.

TRAVELOGUE

(By an old friend, Sargum Sprout)

Last week we did not mention the animal and bird life in the Zion and Bryce National parks. Our memory is playing us tricks or else the birds are not as plentiful as they were fifty years ago. We saw very few birds about the parks. There were a few robins and a less number of jays in Zion. There were no song birds to awake you in the mornings, even man and his plane did not fly over. Perhaps Zion is off the airways.

The camp grounds are literally alive with ground squirrels. They have the appearance of our California ground squirrels but are somewhat larger and not nearly so noisy and are much more sly. When the camp is active the squirrels are not in evidence but in late morning, when the people are hiking and sight-seeing, the entire tribe of squirrels comes out to investigate and how they investigate!

Susan and I had been out one morning and came back when the camp was quiet. One tent we passed must have had a dozen of the little thieves going through everything from the ridge pole down. We had our lesson two years ago and did not leave anything for the little fellows to carry off. Two years ago we had several packaged foods such as beans, rice, tapioca, and lintels and when we came back we had hash which we never could unscramble.

One evening Susan and I and our city cousins walked up to the Weeping Mountain. Just as we came out from the mountain to the river we saw a little three-point buck drinking from the far shore. We were very quiet and soon our three-point was joined by a four-point. We admired them for some time. They were not pets, neither were they wild. We were about ready to resume our return to camp when the lord of the park stepped out. We never did determine how many points he carried upon his proud head. He must have had a spread of three feet or better. What a noble animal he was!

There may be some chipmunks in Zion but they are not in evidence in the camp grounds. We attended a lecture by a naturalist and he stressed the number and size of rattlesnakes that have been found about the park. Next morning we had been up the river admiring the hanging gardens and on our return we passed a party being conducted by a naturalist. He stopped to explain the scientific structure of the valley floor. Susan and I and our city cousins stopped to allow the party to pass and also to hear a little of the discourse. All was very quiet when a little lad piped up in a very high-pitched voice, "Snake Mama! Baby snake!"

Now our male city cousin is allergic to snakes, especially rattlesnakes, and he began a war dance that would have put old Rain-in-the-face to shame. Susan was the first to discover the snake. It was a little green worm about an inch and a half in length. Well, to Susan the situation was very amusing and when Susan is amused she laughs despite attending circumstances. I hurried her away from the lecture and the last I saw of that naturalist's face I was afraid he would have Susan arrested for disturbing the peace.

At Bryce our camp was in the midst of a colony of little striped squirrels. I was taught that there were several kinds and sizes of chipmunks but one of the booklets informed us that there is but one size and kind of chipmunk. He is the wee little fellow with the fuzzy tail. There was a goodly number of the little fellows about camp but the larger, more dressed up animal was in the greater numbers. They even ran over your feet and fought over every table morsel. They were very interesting and cunning.

There is a sort of dark fly catcher that predominates the bird life in Bryce. These fly catchers are everywhere among the pinnacles and down the long aisles of the place. Of course there are a few jays to scold and quarrel with you. We did not see any deer but the forest on the canyon rim has much evidence that deer do abound there.

GARDEN HINTS

LANDSCAPING BALANCE

The well done landscape scheme must maintain balance. This factor is as important to the finished appearance as plants themselves. What is meant by balance with regard to landscaping? The term may be defined as a means by which the different elements of an overall plan are kept in proportion.

For example, consider the landscaping of a small home. Should the foundation planting include shrubs which would hide rather than set off the house, the plan would be said to be "out of balance".

Or, if the foundation planting for this same small house were composed of large, heavy-appearing shrubs it would again be out of balance. On the other hand, there might be occasion to use one or two such plants where others of the same type are used elsewhere in the yard or garden.

COMPARE WITH FURNITURE

A simple illustration of balance is the arrangement of furniture in a living room. Frequently, after these years of seller's markets and housing problems, the householder's furniture does not fit the scale of its environment. The living room suite may be too large for the room, or too small, and therefore out of balance, or proportion. Perhaps there are not enough pieces of furniture to complete the arrangement; perhaps the room may appear somewhat lopsided as a result of pieces too closely grouped.

So in the garden, too many plants may be grouped on one side in the same manner as furniture in the living room. The plants may be grouped in the front yard, with few or none in the rear, thus causing the overall scheme to appear lopsided.

There is a knack in designing landscape to maintain balance. If you do not have this talent inherently, you may learn the principles by careful observation. When planning keep the parts in balance. That essential is the reason for planning before planting.

Contrary to widespread belief among Orange County tomato growers and insecticide salesmen, copper serves no useful purpose in the control of tomato diseases or pests which we have in the county, says A. H. Holland, Assistant Farm Advisor.

Copper is used in large quantities in eastern states for the control of tomato blight, a specific disease caused by a fungus. We have many diseases in California that are commonly called "blights," but they are not caused by this fungus.

Holland says the two most common tomato diseases in this county are spotted wilt and curly top, although verticillium wilt is very common. The first two are both virus diseases and are spread by insects. "Spotted wilt" starts at the top of the plant, causing he leaves to turn yellowish. Brown spots develop on them. Later the fruit is mottled with circular red and yellow patches, and the plants die down the top. The virus is carried from plants by thrips, which are very tiny insects.

The leaves of tomatoes affected with "curly top" have purplish veins and as the disease progresses the plant takes on a bronzed color. Leaf stems curve downward allowing the leaf to droop. The leaves curl upward around the mid-rib. At the same time the main stems of the plant become erect and stiff. As a result the plant stands erect but has a wilted look. Leafhoppers carry this disease. It also affects sugar beets.

The only effective control for these two diseases is to keep the seedbed clean, and kill all weeds in and around the field which may have the disease.

Verticillium wilt is a soil borne disease which develops up into the above ground part of tomatoes. It causes plants to wilt during warm days and also reduces crop production. Tomatoes should not be grown on badly infected soil as it will remain there for years.

Evidence of the disease in tomatoes is the presence of brown streaks in the woody tissue of the stem near the ground level. When tomato plants show either spotted wilt or curly top the disease is incurable because it is in every part of the plant and no spray or dust will do any good.

THIS AND THAT

The patriarch of California's mackinaw trout population, a 24-year old fish weighing 15 pounds, died last month at the Shasta hatchery, it was sadly reported by employees of the Division of Fish and Game.

Seen by hundreds of thousands of visitors, the 26-inch giant was one of four display specimens at the hatchery. He is survived by the other three, all brought as eggs from the State of Minnesota in 1923. The average life span of a trout is from three to seven years.

Because of its habit of eating other game fish, no mackinaw have been planted in California waters since 1924.

Ben Liebermann, Orange County Director of Veterans Affairs, announced that under Public Law 710, brothers, sisters, nieces and nephews of deceased War 11 veterans who were separated from service prior to September 1, 1946, who passed away since discharge and prior to September 1, 1946, are eligible as survivors for terminal leave pay.

September 1, 1948 is the deadline for the filing of these claims, and all qualified survivors who have not yet done so are urged to arrange to file their applications immediately because of the possibility that the lack of certain vital information may cause delays.

Under the law, the terms "brother" and "sister" include brothers and sister of half-blood relationship, stepbrothers and stepsisters or brothers and sisters through adoption.

Legally qualified survivors of bondholders may convert terminal leave bonds into cash immediately.

Under the law, only widows, children and parents of deceased War II veterans were eligible. If the veterans died without cashing the bond and did not have such dependents the bond would revert to the United States treasury.

Complete information for survivors desiring to cash bonds and for survivors who wish to make a claim for settlement of usual leave, (in cases where bonds were not issued,) may be obtained at Orange County Veterans Service Center located at 225 North Broadway, Santa Ana.

Of the thousands of widows and older children of deceased war veterans in California who are eligible for state financial help in futhering their education, only a comparative few are taking advantage of it, Ben Liebermann, County Service Officer has reported.

If a veteran died as a result of military service in either of the two World Wars, his widow—provided she has not remarried— and his children may receive up to $40 a month to help complete their education. Adopted and stepchildren are included. Incidentally, these benefits are in addition to any federal pension received through the Veterans administration.

Full information as to eligibility and other aspects of the California Veterans Dependents Educational Act is available at the Orange County Veterans Service Center, located at 225 North Broadway, Santa Ana, phone Kimberly 2-3516.

The California Aeronautics Commission today reported that registrations of civilian aircraft in California have more than doubled in the past two years.

According to figures received from the Federal Civil Aeronautics Administration, there were 10,560 planes registered in the State on June first of this year, compared to 4,878 in May, 1946.

In Orange county, aircraft registrations increased from 128 to a total of 281 during this period. The county's rate of increase of 119.5 percent compares with a statewide gain of 116 percent for the two years.

Warren E. Carey, State Director of Aeronautics, estimated there will be approximately 432 planes in the county and 19,100 in the state by the end of 1950.

This miniature doll that survived the tragic Donner Party crossing in 1846 will travel again in the "Centennial Caravan". Here Judith Heiner, 7, admires the historic traveler.

This and other priceless relics of California's past are now being assembled by the State's Centennials Commission. All will be displayed within two specially-constructed steel buses which will form the historical caravan to tour every section of California during the three-year Centennials observance.

The average California motorist, with car in good condition and a taste for adventure off the beaten path, will find a trip over the Alaska Highway a memorable experience and will not encounter too many difficulties in securing service and accommodations.

Such was the gist of a report issued of the findings of the first official inspection trip over the route by an AAA field reporter.

"Accommodations along the way are by no means the type to which the average California traveler is accustomed," the report stated. "However, by careful planning, the motorist can make his trip in stages that will bring him each night to points where the better run of establishments is available."

Other tips offered for the prospective Alaska traveler by the Auto Club included:

1. Have your car in first-class condition. Carry along a good jack and two spare tires mounted on wheels.

2. In summer, the road is dusty. Passing a car in a cloud of dust is dangerous and has caused many serious accidents along the Alaska Highway.

3. Wear old clothes, preferably lightweight coveralls in summer. Don't carry parkas or heavy woolen clothes, as Alaskan summers are much like those in the United States.

4. Mosquitos are encountered all along the highway; take repellents and an aerosol bomb with you to spray the car in the morning, during the day and the room you stay in at night.

5. Carrying canned or prepared food is not necessary. Food can be purchased at all stopping points.

6. The journey from Los Angeles to Fairbanks is 4,102 miles. From Edmonton, the road is mostly gravel, so this is no trip for a hurried vacationist. Thirty days is the minimum of time needed for the round trip: $800 the minimum expenses necessary for two persons in one car.

NAZARENE PASTOR AND FAMILY RETURN HOME

Rev. and Mrs. Eric Jorden and daughter, Marcia, have returned home from a three and a half week vacation. When Mrs. Jorden's parents, who had been visiting them returned to their home in Canada, they were taken as far as Eugene, Oregon and on to Nampa, Idaho where they visited with Mrs. Edna Metzgar, a friend of long standing.

Turning homeward, they decided to make the loop and stopped for an overnight stay with an uncle the Reverend Jorden at Evanston, Wyoming. They went on to Salt Lake for a brief stop, then to Las Vegas and finally to San Diego where they spent nearly a week in the Cleveland National forest.

A tiny doll that survived the ill-fated Donner Party in the Sierra snows of 1846 is abmired a century later by 7 year-old Judith Heiner of San Francisco. It is part of the Historical Caravan being assembled by the California Centennials Commission for a state wide tour.

Los Alamitos

Due to illness in the family, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Whitesides and daughter, Jerry Ann, have temporarily canceled their trip to Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. Whitesides celebrated their ninth wedding anniversary at a dinner at Knott's Berry farm last Thursday evening.

At a recent meeting of the P.T.A. executive board, it was voted to get an early start in the raising of finances with which to sponsor a Hallowe'en carnival as one means of keeping the children off the streets that night. It was decided to hold a cooked food sale on Friday, August 20, during the afternoon and all day on Saturday, August 21. The goods will be sold at Campbell's grocery store and DeWitt's grocery. Miss Nellie French, finance and budget chairman has charge of the project.

The American Legion and Auxiliary will hold a joint installation of officers on August 23 in the Congregational Community church. The public is invited to attend and refreshments will be served. Mrs. Louise Aguiar and Mrs. Dorothy Tischler have been elected as delegates to the American Legion and auxiliary convention which will take place in San Francisco September 2-7. Mrs. Tischler, district president, is to be a member of the radio committee at the convention.

The new home of the Charles McGarys on Farquahar street is fast nearing completion and will soon be ready for occupancy. At present they are making their home with the latter's mother, Mrs. M. Webster.

Two rental units are being built at 3666 Green street by Fred Shields, at a cost of $4000.

Announcement has been made by Marvin Smith, clerk of the school board, that the voters in the Laurel school district will be called upon to vote a $45,000 bond issue on September 7. Polling place will be the school auditorium with the polls to be open from 12 noon until six o'clock.

The bonds must be voted to keep the district within the "impoverished" classification in order to ask for another state grant with which to build the second unit of the proposed school plant.

These grants do not include money which may be spent for furnishings so the money will be used to furnish the new rooms being built.

NO GAS CREDIT

If you're heading Alaska way this year, bring enough cash along to pay for your gasoline, advises the Automobile Club of Southern California. Credit cards issued by Major U. S. oil companies are not honored in Yukon Territory or Alaska.

STANTON

SANTA ANA IS GUEST OF CLUB AT STANTON SOCIAL

The hospitality of Mrs. Richard Yater was extended to members of the Sunshine and Shower club at its meeting last Thursday afternoon. Scene of the meeting was the pleasant outdooor living room at the Yater residence on Starr street.

A pot luck picnic was planned for August 27 at Anaheim City park. Refreshments of salad, potato chips and punch was served on individual trays at the close of the afternoon.

Mrs. J. Boyce was a guest for the afternoon. Members present were Mesdames Elijah Briggs, Roy Hudson, John Maloney, Conna Pollock, Ruth Bennett, Milton Hasell, Louis McBratney, Robert Clark and Walter Prather, the latter of Santa Ana.

STANTON CLUB ADDS TWO TO LADY LIONS

Two new members were received by the Lady Lions of Stanton when they met on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Beatrice Dudley on Starr street. Signing the roster were Mrs. Wynona Howland and Mrs. Margaret Manning.

The group planned an old fashioned box supper to be held on the lawn of the Dudley home on the night of September 14. Invited to attend are the husbands of the members and friends.

Three "galloping baskets" have been in circulation with one being returned to date. The funds have not yet been counted.

Bingo was played following the business meeting, each member bringing some article to be used as prizes. The birthday anniversary of Mrs. Leola Gautschy was observed with a cake at refreshment time.

In addition to the members, attending were Mesdames Jessie Allen, Callie Pruett, Beatrice Dudley, Mary Cook, Dorothy Faulkner, Dorothy Kitchens, Marjorie McBratney, Bertha Tabatt, and Leona Gautschy.

KENNEL CLUB CHOOSES STANTON MAN PREXY

Ted L. Roth, who with Mrs. Roth owns the Red-lee Kennels, 7842 east Second street who was instrumental i norganizing the Santa Ana Valley Kennel club, was elected president of the organization at an election held Thursday night. Vice president will be C. D. Carey of Whittier, Lee A. Reasin of Santa Ana, secretary, and Mrs. Louise Weaver, also of Santa Ana, treasurer.

The club will hold its next meeting on September ninth and plans are being formulated for an all-breed puppy match to be held in La Palma park on October 24.

Friends of Nan Parra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony F. Parra, were surprised to learn of her marriage to Joe Dallope, Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dallope of Stanton. The wedding took place in Yuma, Arizona, and formal announcement was made last week. The couple are now living in Garden Grove. Mrs. Dallope is employed in Santa Ana and her husband is an employee of North American Aircraft.

Mrs. Ivan Mahaffie was hostess to the Chat n' Chew club last Thursday for their usual pot luck luncheon. Attending were Mesdames John Kerraker, John Cooke, Louis Lindgren, Robert Kahl, Marc Nordstrom, Vern Bandick and Earl Lukens.

Mrs. Fred Sawtelle has been visiting her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carr and children of Antioch. Most of the time was spent at the Carr's summer home in Santa Cruz.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lukens have returned home from an extended trip to the east. Luken's old home state of Indiana was visited making it the first time he had been home in 40 years. Numerous scenic spots throughout the east were visited as well as friends and relatives in Michigan and Washington.

Mrs. Girard Baldasarre underwent major surgery at the Santa Ana Community hospital recently.

Roy Allen has leased Ernie Stone's garage building and plans to open soon with a first class repair shop.

Virginia Elwood of Stanton Is Wed In Belmont Shore

St. Bartholomew's Catholic church in Belmont Shore was the setting recently for the morning weding a ten o'clock of Miss Virginia Elwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Elwood of Stanton, and Fred Gremen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gremen of Belmont Shore. Baskets of all-white flowers and many lighted candles decorated the altar before which the young couple stood to repeat their vows.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore traditoinal white satin styled with a medium train, tight fitting bodice beaded where it joined the yolk, and long sleeves pointed at the wrist. Her lace edged fingertip veil fell from a beaded tiara and she carried a shower bouquet of tiny pink roses centered with a lavender orchid.

Miss Cloy Elwood was her sister's maid of honor and wore a gown of blue chiffon with matching flowers in her bouquet and hair bandeau. Best man was Carl Gremen, brother of the bridegroom and Elmer Elwood, brother of the bride, ushered.

The 100 guests present gathered in he parish hall to greet and congratulate the newly married pair. Also in the receiving line were the parents of the couple. Mrs. Elwood wore a black gown accented by a pink rose corsage. Mrs. Gremen wore a pink ensemble and corsage. Mrs. Elwood was given the honor of serving the wedding cake and Marilyn Nelson served the punch. Shirley Claussen of Long Beach was in charge of the guest book.

When Mr. and Mrs. Gremen left for a brief honeymoon at Arrowhead, the latter was wearing a green suit with cocoa-colored accessories and the orchid from her bouquet was pinned to her shoulder. They will establish their home in an apartment at 11th street and Daisy avenue in Long Beach.

The bride received her education in Mason City, Iowa while her husband attended the schools in St. Paul, Minnesota. He is employed in the Long Beach post office.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Morse had as their house guest for several days, Mrs. Stanley Hopper and children of Chula Vista.

The C. E. Group of the Stanton Community church reserved the Buena Park Roller rink one night last week for a skating party. It was attended by 35 young people of the C. E. and their friends.

Rodney Jackson has taken out a building permit for a $6000 nome at 8182 Ball road and O. J. Culbertson will construct a residence at 9552 Ball road.
